

Dissociative Identity Disorder: Conceptualization, Assessment and Treatment

24th August 2009 – BRISBANE (Novotel Hotel)
25th August 2009 – MELBOURNE (Rendezvous Hotel)

Early Bird
closes
31/7/09

Workshop Overview

This workshop deals with the diagnosis and treatment of individuals who satisfy diagnostic criteria for a dissociative disorder and in particular deals with those who have dissociative identity disorder (DID) or dissociative identity disorder not otherwise stated (DDNOS) and who can also be frequently be conceptualised as fitting within the spectrum of a complex trauma disorder. The content of the material presented is calibrated to serve the needs of professionals who have a familiarity with the spectrum of conditions associated with psychological trauma but who may not necessarily have a detailed knowledge of dissociated disorders.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- To contextualise dissociative disorder, within both trauma-spectrum disorders, and the wider range of mental health disorders
- To outline the typical trauma histories and phenomenology of patients in the DID/DDNOS spectrum
- To provide a guide to the assessment and diagnosis of dissociative disorders
- To provide conceptual models that facilitate an understanding of the nature and effects of pathological dissociation
- To provide a framework for treatment encompassing staged out-patient psychotherapy and the judicious use of in-patient/day-hospital programs.

About Your Workshop Leader

Warwick Middleton MB BS, FRANZCP, MD., holds appointments as Adjunct Professor, School of Public Health, La Trobe University, and, Associate Professor in Psychiatry, University of Queensland and is a fellow of the ISSTD. He has made substantial and ongoing contributions to the bereavement and trauma literatures and was with Dr Jeremy Butler author of the first published series in the Australian scientific literature detailing the abuse histories and clinical phenomenology of patients fulfilling diagnostic criteria for Dissociative Identity Disorder. He chairs The Cannan Institute as well as its research and conference organizing committees. In 1996 he was a principal architect in establishing Australia's first dedicated unit treating dissociative disorders (the Trauma and Dissociation Unit, Belmont Hospital). He has been in full time private practice since the beginning of 1995. He has had substantive ongoing involvement with research, writing, teaching (including workshops and seminar presentations) and supervision of health and research professionals. He is a member of the International Advisory Board of the Australian and New Zealand Journal of Psychiatry and is a member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Trauma and Dissociation as well as being a regular reviewer for a number of psychiatric journals.
