For over two decades, Recovre has provided outstanding health, safety, injury management, advisory and employment solutions. Put simply, our aim is to help people from prevention to recovery. It's hard work but the rewards are outstanding. So, if you love a fast-paced environment, and have an entrepreneurial spirit and accountability to achieve results, this could be a fantastic growth opportunity for you.

We need passionate professionals in our redeployment work stream to undertake vocational assessments, case management and counselling and group based training programs to assist in returning our clients back to suitable employment.

You'll need a degree in Rehabilitation Counselling, outstanding marketing skills, a desire to succeed, a track record of achieving long-lasting outcomes, negotiation and networking skills, a team ethic and the ability to work autonomously. You can look forward to the support you need to grow, flexible work hours upon meeting deliverables, structured career development, performance incentives, study assistance, the chance to develop the business, paid parental leave, laptop and mobile phone.
